

SHERMAN.

Surrender of Joe Johnston and His Rebel Army.

General Sherman Grants Johnston the Same Terms Granted to Lee.

General Sherman's Order Announcing the Surrender of Lee's Army.

JOY OF THE ARMY.

State Convention Called in North Carolina.

Arrangements Perfected for the Surrender of Kirby Smith's Army.

to, to, to.

Our Special Washington Despatch.

WASHINGTON, April 17, 1865.

Advices received here today from General Sherman state that he had received a flag of truce from General Johnston, asking for terms of surrender. General Sherman said that he should tender him the same terms as were granted to Lee's army. There is no doubt that the next day the surrender will be completed.

There is now no considerable organized rebel force except that of Kirby Smith, in the trans-Mississippi Department, and that will be surrendered within a very short time. Arrangements for the surrender have already been made.

The Press Despatch.

WASHINGTON, April 17, 1865.

Information has been received by the government from General Sherman that he was in communication with General Johnston, with a view to the surrender of the latter.

General Sherman would offer the same terms that General Grant did to General Lee, and it was supposed they would be accepted.

Mr. James C. Fitzpatrick's Despatch.

NEW YORK, N. C., April 18, 1865.

The news from Virginia was communicated to the troops here yesterday, and the occasion of a most hilarious time. According to orders issued, it is said, how true I know not, from one of the commanding officers in this district or vicinity, every one not intoxicated by three P. M. was to be arrested. You may imagine the result. If the order was not literally issued, it was believed to have been verbally and virtually, and it was certainly obeyed spiritually.

This morning we are in receipt of the following order from General Sherman:

SPECIAL ORDER NO. 64.

HEADQUARTERS, MILITARY DIV. OF THE ARMY, April 17, 1865.

The general commanding announces to the army that he has official notice from General Grant that General Lee has surrendered to him his entire army on the 9th inst., at Appomattox Court House, Va.

Glory to God and to our country, and all honor to our comrades in arms to whom we are now marching.

Little more labor, a little more toil, on our part, the great race is won, and our government is now regenerated after its four years of bloody war.

W. Z. SHERMAN, Major-General Commanding.

THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

commenced on Monday morning, when Kirby Smith's cavalry took the lead. The main body of the infantry did not start until Tuesday morning. The march was made with the utmost deliberation, the intention being to repair the railroad as the troops progressed.

The troops are now in the vicinity of and beyond Smithfield, where a temporary halt has been ordered.

AN IMPORTANT REVEAL.

Among the reports brought to us by the train this morning is one that is to be made by General Sherman, and that he is going to Smithfield to confer with Johnston, and that he is going to Smithfield to confer with Johnston, and that he is going to Smithfield to confer with Johnston.

From indications everywhere manifest those capable of judging hereabout say that there will be no fight with Johnston's army in North Carolina.

A STATE CONVENTION.

A State Convention, to consist of delegates from all counties which are free to send them, is called for the 24th of May next. The call is more perhaps the power of some prominent citizens, but yet it is very popular, though objections are made to one portion of the circular, viz: that appointing Wilmington as the place of meeting. It has been suggested that Raleigh would be a more appropriate place, and that it would be well to appoint General Sherman as the person to preside at the convention. General Sherman captures that city before appointing a date, but that there is any doubt of his ability to do so before the time mentioned, but it might be well to wait.

TO BE KEPT OUT OF THE LINES.

Rev. Mr. Watson, pastor of the Episcopal church here, is to be sent out of the lines for continued hostility to the Union cause. He not only refuses to take the oath required of all who wish to dwell within our lines, but in the performance of his ecclesiastical duties he steadily maintains his right to pray for the authorities of the rebel government. He pleads in defense that he cannot give utterance to prayers authorized by other than his Bishop, who, of course, is a rebel. The following order is issued by General Lawley, commanding the district:

HEADQUARTERS, DISTRICT OF WILMINGTON, N. C., April 17, 1865.

Three years ago this day a portion of the troops of this command took possession of Fort Fisher. Here also are men who were engaged in the capture of Fort Fisher and the capture of the city of Wilmington. To them the Commander General directs that you cause a salute of one hundred guns to be fired on the 14th of the present month, from rebel guns and with rebel ammunition, in honor of the restoration of the Stars and Stripes over the same fort.

It is having been reported at these headquarters that a salute of one hundred guns was fired at Wilmington on the 14th of April, 1865, in honor of the fall of Fort Fisher, the Commander General directs that you cause a salute of one hundred guns to be fired on the 14th of the present month, from rebel guns and with rebel ammunition, in honor of the restoration of the Stars and Stripes over the same fort.

It is an essential part of this compromise, with a view to prevent negro States in the South, that the constitution should be amended so as to forever forbid the interference by Congress with the regulation of the right of suffrage in any State.

The constitutional amendment abolishing slavery having passed Congress, Mr. Walker says that no legislation in Congress can take place hereafter, all responsibility of the federal government having thus ceased on this question.

The North and South agreeing upon the basis of settlement, the war to cease, and a convention of all the States to be called, and a convention of all the States to be called, and a convention of all the States to be called.

This plan is the result of patient comparison of ideas, and is founded upon that principle of mutual concession by which both sections, though yielding nothing to the other, have reached a compromise.

Mr. J. E. P. Doyle's Despatch.

GILLESPIE, N. C., April 9, 1865.

HOW SHERMAN'S ARMY RECEIVED THE NEWS OF THE CAPTURE OF JOE JOHNSTON.

This army is glad and rejoices. Richmond has fallen, and they praise God and glorify in it. Their enthusiasm knows no restraint. The news was first received on Friday morning, in the form of a dispatch from General Sherman to General Johnston, posted on the bulletin board at Sherman's headquarters, and thousands gathered about it during the day. This time there were no improbable gravities. It was true, and away the men ran to their commands to spread the glad tidings. The first division of the Fourteenth corps was on review. General Blair, to whom the news was first told, at once communicated it to his brigade. The men were wild with joy. Halls and cheers went up all along the line, and the command "Attention" was given every owner of an old steady hat had swapped it for a better one just from the quartermaster's store.

The news ran along the line like a drift of wind. Now Morgan's command has the news. A moment later Blair's division are howling like Indians, and loosing hats. The next moment the Twentieth, Twenty-third,

SHERMAN.

Surrender of Joe Johnston and His Rebel Army.

General Sherman Grants Johnston the Same Terms Granted to Lee.

General Sherman's Order Announcing the Surrender of Lee's Army.

JOY OF THE ARMY.

State Convention Called in North Carolina.

Arrangements Perfected for the Surrender of Kirby Smith's Army.

to, to, to.

Our Special Washington Despatch.

WASHINGTON, April 17, 1865.

Advices received here today from General Sherman state that he had received a flag of truce from General Johnston, asking for terms of surrender. General Sherman said that he should tender him the same terms as were granted to Lee's army. There is no doubt that the next day the surrender will be completed.

There is now no considerable organized rebel force except that of Kirby Smith, in the trans-Mississippi Department, and that will be surrendered within a very short time. Arrangements for the surrender have already been made.

The Press Despatch.

WASHINGTON, April 17, 1865.

Information has been received by the government from General Sherman that he was in communication with General Johnston, with a view to the surrender of the latter.

General Sherman would offer the same terms that General Grant did to General Lee, and it was supposed they would be accepted.

Mr. James C. Fitzpatrick's Despatch.

NEW YORK, N. C., April 18, 1865.

The news from Virginia was communicated to the troops here yesterday, and the occasion of a most hilarious time. According to orders issued, it is said, how true I know not, from one of the commanding officers in this district or vicinity, every one not intoxicated by three P. M. was to be arrested. You may imagine the result. If the order was not literally issued, it was believed to have been verbally and virtually, and it was certainly obeyed spiritually.

This morning we are in receipt of the following order from General Sherman:

SPECIAL ORDER NO. 64.

HEADQUARTERS, MILITARY DIV. OF THE ARMY, April 17, 1865.

The general commanding announces to the army that he has official notice from General Grant that General Lee has surrendered to him his entire army on the 9th inst., at Appomattox Court House, Va.

Glory to God and to our country, and all honor to our comrades in arms to whom we are now marching.

Little more labor, a little more toil, on our part, the great race is won, and our government is now regenerated after its four years of bloody war.

W. Z. SHERMAN, Major-General Commanding.

THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

commenced on Monday morning, when Kirby Smith's cavalry took the lead. The main body of the infantry did not start until Tuesday morning. The march was made with the utmost deliberation, the intention being to repair the railroad as the troops progressed.

The troops are now in the vicinity of and beyond Smithfield, where a temporary halt has been ordered.

AN IMPORTANT REVEAL.

Among the reports brought to us by the train this morning is one that is to be made by General Sherman, and that he is going to Smithfield to confer with Johnston, and that he is going to Smithfield to confer with Johnston, and that he is going to Smithfield to confer with Johnston.

From indications everywhere manifest those capable of judging hereabout say that there will be no fight with Johnston's army in North Carolina.

A STATE CONVENTION.

A State Convention, to consist of delegates from all counties which are free to send them, is called for the 24th of May next. The call is more perhaps the power of some prominent citizens, but yet it is very popular, though objections are made to one portion of the circular, viz: that appointing Wilmington as the place of meeting. It has been suggested that Raleigh would be a more appropriate place, and that it would be well to appoint General Sherman as the person to preside at the convention. General Sherman captures that city before appointing a date, but that there is any doubt of his ability to do so before the time mentioned, but it might be well to wait.

TO BE KEPT OUT OF THE LINES.

Rev. Mr. Watson, pastor of the Episcopal church here, is to be sent out of the lines for continued hostility to the Union cause. He not only refuses to take the oath required of all who wish to dwell within our lines, but in the performance of his ecclesiastical duties he steadily maintains his right to pray for the authorities of the rebel government. He pleads in defense that he cannot give utterance to prayers authorized by other than his Bishop, who, of course, is a rebel. The following order is issued by General Lawley, commanding the district:

HEADQUARTERS, DISTRICT OF WILMINGTON, N. C., April 17, 1865.

Three years ago this day a portion of the troops of this command took possession of Fort Fisher. Here also are men who were engaged in the capture of Fort Fisher and the capture of the city of Wilmington. To them the Commander General directs that you cause a salute of one hundred guns to be fired on the 14th of the present month, from rebel guns and with rebel ammunition, in honor of the restoration of the Stars and Stripes over the same fort.

It is having been reported at these headquarters that a salute of one hundred guns was fired at Wilmington on the 14th of April, 1865, in honor of the fall of Fort Fisher, the Commander General directs that you cause a salute of one hundred guns to be fired on the 14th of the present month, from rebel guns and with rebel ammunition, in honor of the restoration of the Stars and Stripes over the same fort.

It is an essential part of this compromise, with a view to prevent negro States in the South, that the constitution should be amended so as to forever forbid the interference by Congress with the regulation of the right of suffrage in any State.

The constitutional amendment abolishing slavery having passed Congress, Mr. Walker says that no legislation in Congress can take place hereafter, all responsibility of the federal government having thus ceased on this question.

The North and South agreeing upon the basis of settlement, the war to cease, and a convention of all the States to be called, and a convention of all the States to be called, and a convention of all the States to be called.

This plan is the result of patient comparison of ideas, and is founded upon that principle of mutual concession by which both sections, though yielding nothing to the other, have reached a compromise.

Mr. J. E. P. Doyle's Despatch.

GILLESPIE, N. C., April 9, 1865.

HOW SHERMAN'S ARMY RECEIVED THE NEWS OF THE CAPTURE OF JOE JOHNSTON.

This army is glad and rejoices. Richmond has fallen, and they praise God and glorify in it. Their enthusiasm knows no restraint. The news was first received on Friday morning, in the form of a dispatch from General Sherman to General Johnston, posted on the bulletin board at Sherman's headquarters, and thousands gathered about it during the day. This time there were no improbable gravities. It was true, and away the men ran to their commands to spread the glad tidings. The first division of the Fourteenth corps was on review. General Blair, to whom the news was first told, at once communicated it to his brigade. The men were wild with joy. Halls and cheers went up all along the line, and the command "Attention" was given every owner of an old steady hat had swapped it for a better one just from the quartermaster's store.

The news ran along the line like a drift of wind. Now Morgan's command has the news. A moment later Blair's division are howling like Indians, and loosing hats. The next moment the Twentieth, Twenty-third,

EUROPE.

The City of Baltimore and Lafayette at New York.

ONE DAY LATER NEWS.

Portuguese Reparation to the United States.

The Commander of Fort Bellem Dismissed.

The Privateer Shenandoah at Melbourne, Australia.

SPECIE FROM ENGLAND TO AMERICA.

to, to, to.

Our Special Washington Despatch.

WASHINGTON, April 17, 1865.

Advices received here today from General Sherman state that he had received a flag of truce from General Johnston, asking for terms of surrender. General Sherman said that he should tender him the same terms as were granted to Lee's army. There is no doubt that the next day the surrender will be completed.

There is now no considerable organized rebel force except that of Kirby Smith, in the trans-Mississippi Department, and that will be surrendered within a very short time. Arrangements for the surrender have already been made.

The Press Despatch.

WASHINGTON, April 17, 1865.

Information has been received by the government from General Sherman that he was in communication with General Johnston, with a view to the surrender of the latter.

General Sherman would offer the same terms that General Grant did to General Lee, and it was supposed they would be accepted.

Mr. James C. Fitzpatrick's Despatch.

NEW YORK, N. C., April 18, 1865.

The news from Virginia was communicated to the troops here yesterday, and the occasion of a most hilarious time. According to orders issued, it is said, how true I know not, from one of the commanding officers in this district or vicinity, every one not intoxicated by three P. M. was to be arrested. You may imagine the result. If the order was not literally issued, it was believed to have been verbally and virtually, and it was certainly obeyed spiritually.

This morning we are in receipt of the following order from General Sherman:

SPECIAL ORDER NO. 64.

HEADQUARTERS, MILITARY DIV. OF THE ARMY, April 17, 1865.

The general commanding announces to the army that he has official notice from General Grant that General Lee has surrendered to him his entire army on the 9th inst., at Appomattox Court House, Va.

Glory to God and to our country, and all honor to our comrades in arms to whom we are now marching.

Little more labor, a little more toil, on our part, the great race is won, and our government is now regenerated after its four years of bloody war.

W. Z. SHERMAN, Major-General Commanding.

THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

commenced on Monday morning, when Kirby Smith's cavalry took the lead. The main body of the infantry did not start until Tuesday morning. The march was made with the utmost deliberation, the intention being to repair the railroad as the troops progressed.

The troops are now in the vicinity of and beyond Smithfield, where a temporary halt has been ordered.

AN IMPORTANT REVEAL.

Among the reports brought to us by the train this morning is one that is to be made by General Sherman, and that he is going to Smithfield to confer with Johnston, and that he is going to Smithfield to confer with Johnston, and that he is going to Smithfield to confer with Johnston.

From indications everywhere manifest those capable of judging hereabout say that there will be no fight with Johnston's army in North Carolina.

A STATE CONVENTION.

A State Convention, to consist of delegates from all counties which are free to send them, is called for the 24th of May next. The call is more perhaps the power of some prominent citizens, but yet it is very popular, though objections are made to one portion of the circular, viz: that appointing Wilmington as the place of meeting. It has been suggested that Raleigh would be a more appropriate place, and that it would be well to appoint General Sherman as the person to preside at the convention. General Sherman captures that city before appointing a date, but that there is any doubt of his ability to do so before the time mentioned, but it might be well to wait.

TO BE KEPT OUT OF THE LINES.

Rev. Mr. Watson, pastor of the Episcopal church here, is to be sent out of the lines for continued hostility to the Union cause. He not only refuses to take the oath required of all who wish to dwell within our lines, but in the performance of his ecclesiastical duties he steadily maintains his right to pray for the authorities of the rebel government. He pleads in defense that he cannot give utterance to prayers authorized by other than his Bishop, who, of course, is a rebel. The following order is issued by General Lawley, commanding the district:

HEADQUARTERS, DISTRICT OF WILMINGTON, N. C., April 17, 1865.

Three years ago this day a portion of the troops of this command took possession of Fort Fisher. Here also are men who were engaged in the capture of Fort Fisher and the capture of the city of Wilmington. To them the Commander General directs that you cause a salute of one hundred guns to be fired on the 14th of the present month, from rebel guns and with rebel ammunition, in honor of the restoration of the Stars and Stripes over the same fort.

It is having been reported at these headquarters that a salute of one hundred guns was fired at Wilmington on the 14th of April, 1865, in honor of the fall of Fort Fisher, the Commander General directs that you cause a salute of one hundred guns to be fired on the 14th of the present month, from rebel guns and with rebel ammunition, in honor of the restoration of the Stars and Stripes over the same fort.

It is an essential part of this compromise, with a view to prevent negro States in the South, that the constitution should be amended so as to forever forbid the interference by Congress with the regulation of the right of suffrage in any State.

The constitutional amendment abolishing slavery having passed Congress, Mr. Walker says that no legislation in Congress can take place hereafter, all responsibility of the federal government having thus ceased on this question.

The North and South agreeing upon the basis of settlement, the war to cease, and a convention of all the States to be called, and a convention of all the States to be called, and a convention of all the States to be called.

This plan is the result of patient comparison of ideas, and is founded upon that principle of mutual concession by which both sections, though yielding nothing to the other, have reached a compromise.

Mr. J. E. P. Doyle's Despatch.

GILLESPIE, N. C., April 9, 1865.

HOW SHERMAN'S ARMY RECEIVED THE NEWS OF THE CAPTURE OF JOE JOHNSTON.

This army is glad and rejoices. Richmond has fallen, and they praise God and glorify in it. Their enthusiasm knows no restraint. The news was first received on Friday morning, in the form of a dispatch from General Sherman to General Johnston, posted on the bulletin board at Sherman's headquarters, and thousands gathered about it during the day. This time there were no improbable gravities. It was true, and away the men ran to their commands to spread the glad tidings. The first division of the Fourteenth corps was on review. General Blair, to whom the news was first told, at once communicated it to his brigade. The men were wild with joy. Halls and cheers went up all along the line, and the command "Attention" was given every owner of an old steady hat had swapped it for a better one just from the quartermaster's store.

The news ran along the line like a drift of wind. Now Morgan's command has the news. A moment later Blair's division are howling like Indians, and loosing hats. The next moment the Twentieth, Twenty-third,

EUROPE.

The City of Baltimore and Lafayette at New York.

ONE DAY LATER NEWS.

Portuguese Reparation to the United States.

The Commander of Fort Bellem Dismissed.

The Privateer Shenandoah at Melbourne, Australia.

SPECIE FROM ENGLAND TO AMERICA.

to, to, to.

Our Special Washington Despatch.

WASHINGTON, April 17, 1865.

Advices received here today from General Sherman state that he had received a flag of truce from General Johnston, asking for terms of surrender. General Sherman said that he should tender him the same terms as were granted to Lee's army. There is no doubt that the next day the surrender will be completed.

There is now no considerable organized rebel force except that of Kirby Smith, in the trans-Mississippi Department, and that will be surrendered within a very short time. Arrangements for the surrender have already been made.

The Press Despatch.

WASHINGTON, April 17, 1865.

Information has been received by the government from General Sherman that he was in communication with General Johnston, with a view to the surrender of the latter.

General Sherman would offer the same terms that General Grant did to General Lee, and it was supposed they would be accepted.

Mr. James C. Fitzpatrick's Despatch.

NEW YORK, N. C., April 18, 1865.

The news from Virginia was communicated to the troops here yesterday, and the occasion of a most hilarious time. According to orders issued, it is said, how true I know not, from one of the commanding officers in this district or vicinity, every one not intoxicated by three P. M. was to be arrested. You may imagine the result. If the order was not literally issued, it was believed to have been verbally and virtually, and it was certainly obeyed spiritually.

This morning we are in receipt of the following order from General Sherman:

SPECIAL ORDER NO. 64.

HEADQUARTERS, MILITARY DIV. OF THE ARMY, April 17, 1865.

The general commanding announces to the army that he has official notice from General Grant that General Lee has surrendered to him his entire army on the 9th inst., at Appomattox Court House, Va.

Glory to God and to our country, and all honor to our comrades in arms to whom we are now marching.

Little more labor, a little more toil, on our part, the great race is won, and our government is now regenerated after its four years of bloody war.

W. Z. SHERMAN, Major-General Commanding.

THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

commenced on Monday morning, when Kirby Smith's cavalry took the lead. The main body of the infantry did not start until Tuesday morning. The march was made with the utmost deliberation, the intention being to repair the railroad as the troops progressed.

The troops are now in the vicinity of and beyond Smithfield, where a temporary halt has been ordered.

AN IMPORTANT REVEAL.

Among the reports brought to us by the train this morning is one that is to be made by General Sherman, and that he is going to Smithfield to confer with Johnston, and that he is going to Smithfield to confer with Johnston, and that he is going to Smithfield to confer with Johnston.

From indications everywhere manifest those capable of judging hereabout say that there will be no fight with Johnston's army in North Carolina.

A STATE CONVENTION.

A State Convention, to consist of delegates from all counties which are free to send them, is called for the 24th of May next. The call is more perhaps the power of some prominent citizens, but yet it is very popular, though objections are made to one portion of the circular, viz: that appointing Wilmington as the place of meeting. It has been suggested that Raleigh would be a more appropriate place, and that it would be well to appoint General Sherman as the person to preside at the convention. General Sherman captures that city before appointing a date, but that there is any doubt of his ability to do so before the time mentioned, but it might be well to wait.

TO BE KEPT OUT OF THE LINES.

Rev. Mr. Watson, pastor of the Episcopal church here, is to be sent out of the lines for continued hostility to the Union cause. He not only refuses to take the oath required of all who wish to dwell within our lines, but in the performance of his ecclesiastical duties he steadily maintains his right to pray for the authorities of the rebel government. He pleads in defense that he cannot give utterance to prayers authorized by other than his Bishop, who, of course, is a rebel. The following order is issued by General Lawley, commanding the district:

HEADQUARTERS, DISTRICT OF WILMINGTON, N. C., April 17, 1865.

Three years ago this day a portion of the troops of this command took possession of Fort Fisher. Here also are men who were engaged in the capture of Fort Fisher and the capture of the city of Wilmington. To them the Commander General directs that you cause a salute of one hundred guns to be fired on the 14th of the present month, from rebel guns and with rebel ammunition, in honor of the restoration of the Stars and Stripes over the same fort.

It is having been reported at these headquarters that a salute of one hundred guns was fired at Wilmington on the 14